

Delaware Electric Cooperative to Give $7.7 Million Back to Members in December

Submitted on Mon, 08/19/2019

GREENWOOD, Del.- Delaware Electric Cooperative's (DEC) Board of Directors has voted to return $7.7 million in capital credits to the Cooperative's member-owners in December. Capital credits are also known as the Co-op's profits or margins. Because DEC is a not-for-profit utility, margins are returned to the people the Cooperative serves.

To receive a billing credit or check from the Cooperative, you must have been a Delaware Electric Cooperative member in 1987, 1988, 1990, 1991, 2005, 2006 or 2007. If a member has eligible capital credits of $100 or higher, they will receive a check. If their allocated capital credits amount is less than $100, a member will receive a credit on their bill. Members who had an active account in 1987, 1988, 1990, 1991, 2005, 2006 or 2007, but are no longer served by DEC, will also receive a check for their portion of the retired capital credits.

According to Bill Andrew, President and CEO of DEC, "We return the money to members during the Christmas season because that's when members need it the most. The return of capital credits is one of the many ways electric cooperatives are different from the for-profit utilities. We make decisions based on what's best for our members and return any profits to those we serve."

Over the past six years the Cooperative has returned nearly $35 million to members.
